As you can see, I'm in WordPress back-end, and to install the plugin, you should go to "Plugins...Add New."	The main screen switches to the WordPress dashboard. The cursor moves to the "Plugin" options in the menu bar along the left edge of the dashboard. Hovering over "Plungins," a submenu appears, and the cursor clicks "Add New." The WordPress "Add Plugins" page appears.
And in the search bar, type "UserWay."	The cursor types "UserWay" into the "Keyword" search bar. The banner link to the UserWay plugin appears.
This is the plugin, so click on "Install Now."	The cursor clicks the "Install Now" button in the upper right corner of the UserWay banner. The button changes to "Installed," and then to "Activate."
And, activate it.	The cursor clicks the "Activate" button. The WordPress Plugins screen appears.
When you're done activating the plugin, you should scroll down to "Settings" and click on the "UserWay" tab.	The cursor scrolls down the menu bar and hovers over the "Settings" option. A submenu appears, and the cursor clicks the "UserWay" option. The Registration page appears.
In this last step, you need to register the plugin. So, you're required to fill in your email, your first name, your last name, and your URL.	Sample values for these variables appear in the registration form.
Once you're done, just click on "Save Changes," and you have successfully installed the plugin.	The cursor clicks the "Save Changes" button on the left side, between the form and the instructions.
